LANGUAGE

Introduction

The Foundation for Professional Development's (FPD) Language Policy follows section 27(2) of the Higher Education Act (1997) 1 which requires higher education institutions to develop and publish a language policy.

The purpose of this Policy is to provide guidance on the language requirements for internal and external communication and for teaching and learning practices with FPD, in accordance with relevant legislation (see references). FPD subscribes to a multilingual ethos where the linguistic diversity of South African provinces is acknowledged.

The Language Policy is aligned with four major languages policy imperatives as prescribed in the Language Policy for Higher Education: 2

- The designation of the language(s) of instruction.
- The future of the indigenous languages as fields of academic study and research and the need for higher education to create "a multilingual environment in which all our languages are developed as academic/scientific languages" (par. 6).
- The promotion of the study of foreign languages (par. 17.1).
- The promotion of institutional multilingual practices.

FPD has taken into consideration the following South African legislation in the development of this Policy:

- Language in Education Policy in Terms of Section 3(4)(M) of the National Education Policy Act, 1996. 3
- The Norms and Standards Regarding Language Policy Published in Terms of Section 6(1) Of the South African Schools Act, 1996.4

- The notion of functional multilingualism where the choice of using a particular language is determined by different contexts such as the purpose and nature of language use and communication;
- The multilingual varieties of students and staff as resources for effective teaching and learning;
- The important role of language in promoting human dignity, and the transformation process required to build a free and just democracy;
- The need to cultivate a spirit of respect and inclusiveness in matters relating to language;
- The need to develop and study indigenous African languages as fields of academic study.

Designated Languages

Given the institution's geographical context and reflecting our commitment to promoting multilingualism in the context of higher education, Sesotho sa Leboa (Northern Sotho), English, isiZulu (Zulu) and Afrikaans are designated as primary languages in FPD's community. Depending on the need of our community and where feasible, FPD will evaluate the language of instruction annually and update this policy accordingly.

Languages of Instruction

- All approved modules and programmes are offered in English.
- FPD will adopt comprehensive measures to ensure that students have access to English academic literacy courses to facilitate the use of English as a tool for teaching and learning, and for professional purposes.
- Working Language(s):
 - English is the primary language of internal governance, administration, marketing, and internal and external communication at FPD.
 - The use of any particular language(s) must not serve as a barrier to participation in official institutional governance and communication.

Future of Designated Languages

- Conditions will be created for the ongoing and systematic elaboration/expansion of other indigenous languages, were feasible and within budget constraints.
- Strategies and support mechanisms for ongoing and systematic elaboration/ expansion will be considered were feasible.

Foreign Languages

- A student whose primary language is any other language/s other than English will be assisted as follows where necessary and if possible:
 - Provide basic information about the module, such as information relating to contact times and assessments;
 - o Guidance with understanding academic records and administrative information.
- FPD does not have a Language Unit but can recommend institutions of higher learning that can offers support to its students.

Accountabilities

The Academic Committee is responsible for review and approval of this policy on an annual basis. The policy is to be distributed to staff via induction and distributed to students and FPD's community via the website and other publications.
